

Dear transplant nurse,

Throughout my life and further on I have had a lot of contact with doctors and nurses. Some are nice, some are not so nice. But when you deal with heart transplant doctors and nurses everyone is nice, caring and compassionate. There are no words to describe transplant nurses. Everybody I see or I deal with, whether its the doctor or nurse, I always sing the praises of the transplant nurse and doctors.

I wish you all well.

- Evelyn

Note from Jim: Evelyn is a recent friend who called looking for memorial information, having just lost her heart transplant husband and soul mate, Paul. Paul enjoyed 17 years of life with her thanks to your care and his donated heart. He was 75 years old and died of non-heart related issues. Paul “rescued” her after she escaped from a 38 year life in a battered relationship. One year after they got together, he needed and received his heart transplant, making possible their life together which she describes as “my heart and my soul.”
