

To A Transplant Nurse

Thank you so much for the kind and gentle care that you gave our granddaughter when she was in Grady Hospital and her organs were donated following a car accident in November, 2006 near Atlanta.

Our oldest son was in the room in the ICU with our daughter and son-in-law (parents of our granddaughter) during the final hours. He said that because of the expertise exhibited during the preparation for transplanting, they were able to stay close and experience consideration and calmness — much like in a church service when preparations are being made for quiet ceremonies.

My daughter and I are both nurses, and I was with her when our granddaughter was born and we were with them at Grady Hospital. We remember the Transplant Nurses during those hours, taking care of every possible need and going "beyond the call" to provide comfort.

Thank you again.
